

Quatro alert via SMS

The new new 'SMS' alert service¹ from Quatro Four Retail™ means C-Store retailers can now access inventory order information anywhere, anytime¹.

Australian Retailers can receive an SMS alert about the status of their order either via a mobile phone or through a compatible landline configured to receive SMS, allowing them the freedom to leave the store and still have access to vital business information.

Quatro's Head of Marketing, David Levine, says the new service provides convenience and time savings to the network's users. "With Quatro currently offering the service at no additional cost to our users, it won't be long before it becomes an integral part of day-to-day operations for our growing client base."

For retailers operating multiple sites, Quatro's new SMS service can provide access to order progress for any number of stores, allowing store managers to monitor stock replenishment more easily.

¹ Providing that they are in an area with mobile coverage.
